BRAND'S PREMIUM STOCK larly with the tamen "Bittle Grant," and in every instance has taken the premium. At a recent trial with the latter upon the Fair Grounds of the Soutawestern Agricultural and Mechanical "asociation, it again took the prize. It stands now without a rival. This mill combines three principles—that of cutting with several steel hlades, with that of crashing and grinding. It is heaver and stronger, and less liable to he ak or getout of repair, than any other mill before the public. It is more easily adjusted, being set coarse or fine by a single screw, which may be done by a boy ton years old. It may be used for cutting and grinding apples, turnips, beets, and rutabagas; and with a small additional expense, will cat and grind corn with shuck, which can be done by no other mill extant. And finally, it has greater grinding surface, and will grind finer, faster, and easier, than any other mill of the size in use. It is furnished complete, with sweep hook and screws, and any farmer, with his sugur and "exe, can settl up and have it grinding in haf an hour. Mrs. Hawkins and Trainer. of the City Foundry, on Main street, near Preston, have established a manufactory of Brand's Block Mills in this city, and the attention of planters and stock growers in the South and West is called to its superior claims to public favorocils d&wif

Leaning against a huge convect, who should I see in all his glory but the Marshal Duke Pelissier taking with Mile. Le grain, a young lady of no great personal beanty, but of miraculous dancing powers. The Marshal was smiling like a basket of chips, and so was receipt of some very choice samples of Black Madeuotselle. In a moment he was surrounded by a host of coryphees, brought up in gallart ar-ray by his brother-iu-arms, Canrobert, who seemray by his brother-iu-arms, Canrobert, who seemed to know and he loved by the whole of the divinity in tights. The dnke attracted the most distinct attention attention. Undoubtedly he found his reception by the world this side of the rampormer gratifying thau that of the other, and he let himself completely ont in the enjoyment of the chattering and buzzing going on about him.

"The sight all around, for a moment or two, was most singular. Here a knot of daucing girls, with shawls thrown over their shoulders, conversed together, sipping ear-encree, cold bonillou, or Madei gether, sipping eau-ancree, cold bonillou, or Madei ra wine and water, given thom by attending mothers or bounes, who, clothed in musty habili-ments, waited patiently in the back-ground, ready o be of any service to their children or mistress s. In fours, at each of three back wings stood parts; some were already attached by the shoulders and waists to the long wires descending from away up high, from the men on the poats, which were instrumental in their flights; others were submitting to the arrangement and donning the 'airy harness' by the aid of husy active little fellows employed by the theater. About them were two and threes of young men, talking and laughing, and giving them boubons, and having a very jolly time with the stationally angels. The very joily time with the stationaly augels. The ladies were everywhere poluting their feet, rais-ing their limbe on a level, polsing ou their toes, munching sugar-plums, and maintaining sil the ime achatter, chatter, chatter, which drew a re-ceated shish from the stage inspectors who were ounging indiscriminately about."

According to a statistical work lately pubished on the consumption of Paris, the quantity of tobacco consumed in smoking in 1854 was near-ty double that of 1839, and that of cigars five times as much; whilst that of suuff, on the contrary, presented a marked diminution. It is calculated that the unmber of smikers in Paris, including the garrison, is abent 420,000, and the total consumption gives one kilogramme, 973 centi-grammes of tobacco, 143 cigars, and four cigarettes for each person; or, calculating the cigars at 250 and the cigareties at 1,000 to the kilogramme, two kilogrammes, 749 centigrammes for each. In England, the consumption is calculated to be sixteen ounces a head.

LITTLE THORNS .- The sweetest, the most cing-LITTLE THORNS.—The sweetest, the most clinging affection is often shaken by the slightest breath of nakindness, as the delicate tendris of the vine are agitated by the faintest air that blows in summer. An unkind word from one beloved often draws the blood from a heart which would defy the battle are of hatred, or the keenest edge of vindictive satire. Nay, the shade, the gloom of the face, familiar and dear, awakens grief and pain. These are the little thorns which, though mon of roughar form make their way through trem without feeling much, extremely incommode porsons of a more refued turn, in their journey through life, and make their traveling irksome and unpleasant.

Examination o, the Cokers for Killing John Richart.

George and William Ooker were before the Polies Court on Salurday merning, on the charge of killing John Richart, at the ferry-landing in Portland, on Wednesday last. Our reporter furnishes us full netes of the testimony, but we do not think it necessary to burden our columns with the details. We announced the killing in the Democrat of Thursday, and gave such particulars then, together with the verdict of the Coroner's incy, as we could command.

Thirteen witnesses were examined, and there was but trifling variation as to the effect of the testimony. Mr. Connelly, the captain of the ferry-boat upon which the difficulty prigineted which resulted in the death of the deceased, was a material witness. His testimony was substantially as follows: The acoused and deceased had an alternation upon the ferry-boat while tomed to such sights and unsophisticated in South getting their wagons off the boat; beard one of ern manners, his conduct was such as to excite the accused use some very harsh language to de- the enspicion of those who had the slaves in charge, cessed, afterwards saw Richart have hold of Coker; presently heard several bystanders say, "Let in jail, as much to preserve him from the wrath them have a fair fight," &c., when three or four persons attacked Richart, but saw no one strike him but the accused didn't see the deceased strike a single blow.

Other witnesses testified that Richard was a quist, inoffensive person; that he was urged and finally forced into the fight; that he made little or no resistance further than to extricate himself from the fury of his pursuers.

Some of the witnesses Identified Wm. Preston, man pretty well known in this community, se g taken a conspicuous part in getting up the second fight, which resulted in Richart's death, Preston was on his way to Vincennes, Indiana, at the time, and has not yet been arrested.

The Coroner testified that Richart had come to his death by blows indicted upon his head and neck. And those witnesses who saw the whole d figuity recognized Geo. Caker as the man who Inflored the blows.
